

Gary Active Brief Receives Rave Reviews

We knew we could help with our Active Brief.

After 20 years manufacturing high-quality incontinence products for customers around the world, we knew that our customers needed a dependable, yet breathable incontinence pant. That's why we launched GaryWear's Active Brief, a washable diaper cover that provides extra security for active adults of all ages.

Initial research with our consumer testing groups gave us insight that we had created a much-needed product for folks who want to control their incontinence rather than let their incontinence control them. Since launching our incontinence pant to the public, early reviews from new customers and our online distributors continue to show how much this durable, washable product is making a difference.
